

I believe that a strong democracy requires a media that provides multiple opinions and views on issues of public concern and interest. Allowing a few very wealthy corporations to control the media is contrary to that premise.